Attention; Robert Metzinger.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

My struggle with EHS took center stage in my life in the spring of 2003, with the symptoms becoming more and more debilitating with each passing day.

July 13, 2005 was my last day of work. By this time I was experiencing total body seizures lasting up to three hours per day.

By chance my wife found an ad from ENVIRATEST in a health magazine. This was the first step to finding out how to protect myself from dirty electricity and deadly cell phone tower radiation.

In January 2006 I called Sunnybrooke Hospital Environmental Clinic following a major increase in symptoms. The hospital advised me to call Rob Metzinger and said that he could help me. I can honestly say he has kept me alive by continually providing me with the lifesaving strategies to combat the symptoms of this spaceage plague.

Yours truly
